A bellied Percheron mare owned by Kristina Sherling.

Ask any owner of the Percheron breed what colors you can find these horses in and they'll likely tell you time and again that they only come in black and grey. The reality is that the majority of owners and participants in the breed are misinformed. The Percheron breed is still allowed to be registered in 41 different variations of color by the American Association. The Percheron Horse Association of America is one of the few registries for the Percheron breed worldwide that allows all color variations of the Percheron to be recognized, registered, and documented. Percherons knowingly come in black, grey, chestnut, blue Roan, Bay Roan, Red Roan, Sorrel, Bay, and Brown. Some of these variations no longer exist within the breed at this time simply because it is not one of the things that most are focusing on. Some of these variations could be bred back into the breed with the right genetics at play and small dose of luck. Each single breeder of Percherons breeds for color even if it's black and grey, why not because breeders who specialize in something a lot less common. That is exactly what Pipe Dreams Percherons and Hacienda Percherons is trying to accomplish. By using knowledge, resources and horses, I and my parents, Pat and Marie Winn of Home, Michigan, are doing exactly that. I call it preserving the breed at this point in this is being done. We are trying to breed for certain characteristics and colors before they disappear completely from the breed.

In 2003 I was sent on a mission to find a blue roan Percheron stallion after seeing the colt as a choice on the Percheron Horse Association website. I truly didn't realize how unbelievably lucky I was to come across such a colt; a blue roan quickly and so easily. When I first initiated the search I came across a large majority of cross-breds who qualified for the Percheron rule but didn't qualify as registered purebred Percherons. An off hundred commen
